

On-the-spot
electronic signatures
inside your web applications

DocuSign® In-Session Signing

Now, all signers can sign without leaving a web session.

DocuSign's new In-Session Signing capability adds another signature option to the service's original, remote signature functionality, which allows for secure document signature via e-mail, portal or other online access. In-Session Signing enables sales teams or financial lenders, for example, to present sales contracts or loan documents to customers for viewing and electronic signature during the flow of the sales call or lending approval session. The result is a more positive customer experience and a more streamlined process with instant results and significant time and cost savings for both the companies and their customers.

In-Session Signing Benefits

Instant Signature Capture – Immediate, on-the-spot electronic signatures

Higher Customer Retention – Customers can renew agreements instantly, online, keeping customers on your site instead of some else's

Triple Your Close Rates – Convert prospects to sales immediately while their interest is strong

Increased Customer Satisfaction – Streamlining the customer experience with In-session signing keeps customers happy and avoids cumbersome external processes

Streamlined Business Processes – Integrate the signing process into your automated enterprise systems enabling end-to-end handsoff process

In-Session Signing Applications

- » Loan Applications
- » Renewal Agreements
- » Contractual Agreements
- » Collaborative Agreements
- » Terms & Conditions Agreements

DocuSign® On-demand Electronic Signature Service

DocuSign is an on-demand electronic signature service that allows contracts to be signed instantly from anywhere using just a browser. DocuSign's signature service is very flexible and can be integrated into corporate applications or used directly from the desktop.

Any company that routinely requires signatures in their business will find DocuSign a more customer friendly, faster and less expensive than paper-based signing. DocuSign ensures a legally binding, non-reputable signing process regardless of industry, application or workflow process. DocuSign exceeds compliance regulations by automating document control, authentication, audit controls, and reporting requirements.