Manage compliance with IRS mandates

With the shift to remote work during the pandemic, the IRS updated regulations to increasingly accommodate electronic filings. As firms look for ways to stay in compliance, DocuSign offers an integrated solution that allows firms to leverage the same vendor for their identity verification requirements as well as their electronic agreements, streamlining the entire signing experience. DocuSign continuously strives to set industry best practices for trust and compliance, helping to alleviate the regulatory burden on firms.

Build trust and improve the client experience

Clients can often be hesitant to use electronic tax filings, or skeptical about the security of digital agreements. While there is recognition around the efficiency and convenience of digitizing the tax filing process, clients want to ensure their sensitive information is protected. With DocuSign ID Verification, firms can bring that extra level of assurance and trust to their clients, while also improving the overall filing experience.
